Subject: Rethink this unreasonable position that hurts Californians

The 48 newly proposed emission “control measures.” All need to be abolished due to the impossibility of compliance. How is it possible to reduce emissions when

As stated in recent article “Meeting the standard would require reducing emissions of nitrogen oxides (NOx) by 71% more than all our current rules and regulations will achieve. “The only way to achieve the required NOx reductions is through extensive use of zero emission technologies across all stationary and mobile sources,” the executive summary states, but what the AQMD is allowed to regulate “accounts for less than 20 percent of NOx emissions.”

That being said why would you penalize the average worker through requirements that are impossible to be met.
