Subject: [EXTERNAL] NOx emissions limits

AQMD Stationary Source Committee:

Regarding scheduled vote on proposed amendments to two rules that would set NOx emissions limits at zero for residential and commercial space heating and residential water heating. Amended rules will apply to the manufacturing, sales, and installation of these appliances – essentially eliminating natural gas appliances for these uses.

I am totally opposed to this nonsense proposed rule. There is not enough electricity or other sources of energy in California to sustain such a rule.

Please reign in this proposal and maintain the rules we currently have. Prices of construction and replacement of current appliances is too high for the regular citizen to afford.
